

A.L. Huber...Building Houses of God and Homes for Businesses

CATHEDRAL OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

In 1903, A.L. Huber General Contractor began business as a residential builder. In its 102-year history, the company has grown and changed, but one thing has not. It is the firm's commitment to "always building value."

Today, this commitment guides the third and fourth generations of the Huber family and is the overriding reason for 75 percent of the firm's projects coming from repeat clients.

In the 1960s, the company focus changed to commercial building with the construction of a hundred convenience stores. Also, the second Vatican Council decided to change the liturgy in the Catholic Church and move the altars so that the priests would face the worshippers. A.L. Huber made the necessary renovations in many churches throughout the Midwest. This led to them becoming the area's premier church builder with more than 100 religious structures for almost every faith and every denomination.

The thousands of commercial projects that followed include:

- Churches/Religious Structures
- Banks/Financial Institutions
- Office Buildings
- Retail Stores/Shopping Centers
- Industrial/Manufacturing Facilities
- Healthcare/Medical Buildings
- Schools/Educational Facilities
- Warehouses/Distribution Centers
- Metal Buildings
- Historical Restorations

Numerous historical restorations and projects with the artist Christo have allowed the company to accomplish unique construction challenges and earned the company international acclaim for its problem-solving abilities.

So, whether your project is big, small or somewhere in between; an exterior or interior project; new construction or renovation; a "home for your business" or a "house of God"... contact A.L. Huber General Contractor. You are guaranteed a "value-built" project, because A.L. Huber wants you as a repeat customer.
