Dear Ms. Carroll:

From the Yellow Pine ceiling to the Bamboo flooring of our new corporate headquarters, A.L. Huber covered every last detail. It is with great personal pride that I am able to offer commendation on behalf of A.L. Huber as a nominee for 2006 AGC Building Excellence Award.

Our new office is not only unique in itself, but unique room to room. Each separate office is designed to showcase the exceptional capabilities of our on-site mill. With this in mind, A.L. Huber constructed our building with the utmost care and attention to detail. This is easily observed by walking through our office and noticing the wide variety of trim used. There are over fifty separate patterns in our 7800 square foot office! A.L. Huber made sure that every step was taken to ensure a great finished product.

One challenge in particular was our LAN room. The majority of our computer and electrical equipment are housed in one room. The closeness in proximity generated an unusual amount of heat and we were forced to find an alternative method to cool this room. A.L. Huber was able to overcome this obstacle in a reasonable amount of time and we now have a constant temperature of sixty-eight degrees in the LAN room.

I very highly recommend A.L. Huber for consideration for the AGC Project of the Year Award.

Sincerely,

Daniel C. Fuhrman
Chairman
